

GERMINATING TRUTH - EMET

Listen,
listen,
listen,
for the sound of the seed beneath the earth taking in nutrients from the soil and water that miraculously makes its way in so the tiny seed grows, strains against its own outer layer within the inner sanctum of earth's upper layers, expanding in tiny increments, like a baby in utero, so it can one day emerge after the winter rains, at just the right moment, poking its shoots above the surface, first sign of a new season boldly pronouncing its arrival to all who pass by and pay attention to its presence but before that, this, just this, is all there is the distant sound of germinating truth, life unfolding just below the surface listen carefully, tend to it, you never know what might emerge in the quiet of that moment in the inner sanctum of your soul's emerging presence.

YHVH elohechem emet.
This unfolding of Life is true,
is YHVH,
is the Godliness you seek.
